Hello! I'm Avishek Sarkar, a dedicated member of the Bangladesh Coast Guard and a passionate part-time web developer. With a strong commitment to serving my country, I've honed a variety of skills that extend beyond my primary duties. My journey into web development started out of curiosity, and over time, it has grown into a passion. As a beginner in web development, I enjoy exploring the endless possibilities of coding, particularly in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. I'm always eager to learn new techniques and improve my skills, aiming to build clean, efficient, and visually appealing websites. Balancing my responsibilities in the Coast Guard with my interest in web development has taught me discipline, attention to detail, and the importance of continuous learning.
